If you can't control the length of your life, you can control its quality. Swift once said, "May you live all the days of your life." Make each day count. Live each day as if it were your last. It's all been said before, but it's true.

Life is short and you only have between a minute and a hundred years to live. Life is a party. Don't be a wall flower.

Faculty Is Remembered

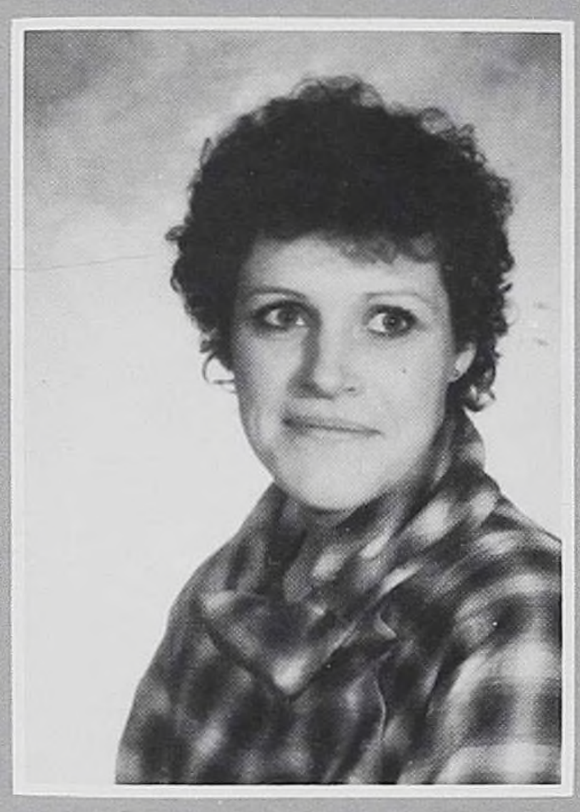

Implanting the desire to learn into the student body was the fundamental goal of the New Prairie faculty. Attending workshops and extracurricular classes helped them to expand their teaching abilities. Each teacher received a plan period which enabled him to prepare class notes and lectures. However, classtime was not spent in textbook learning alone. The teachers witnessed the students maturing and developing as individuals, while the students, in turn, came to respect their teachers.

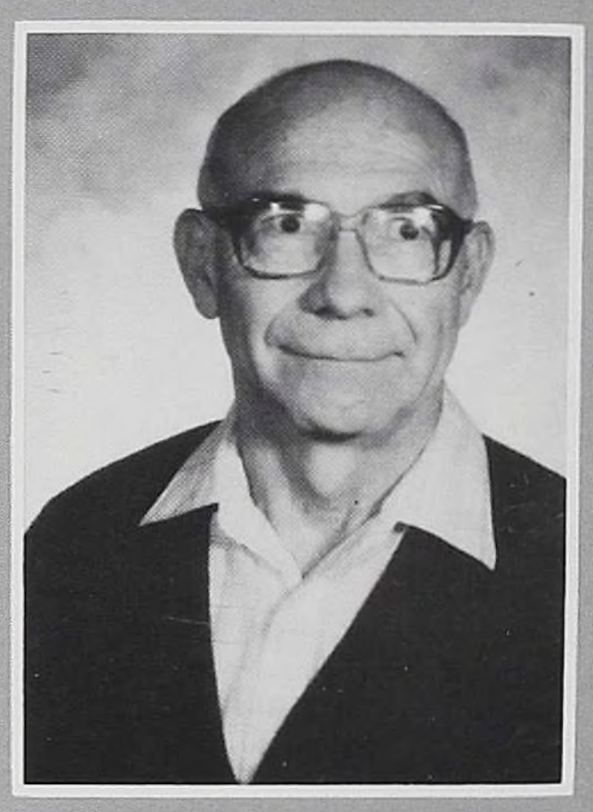

Are they really studying?

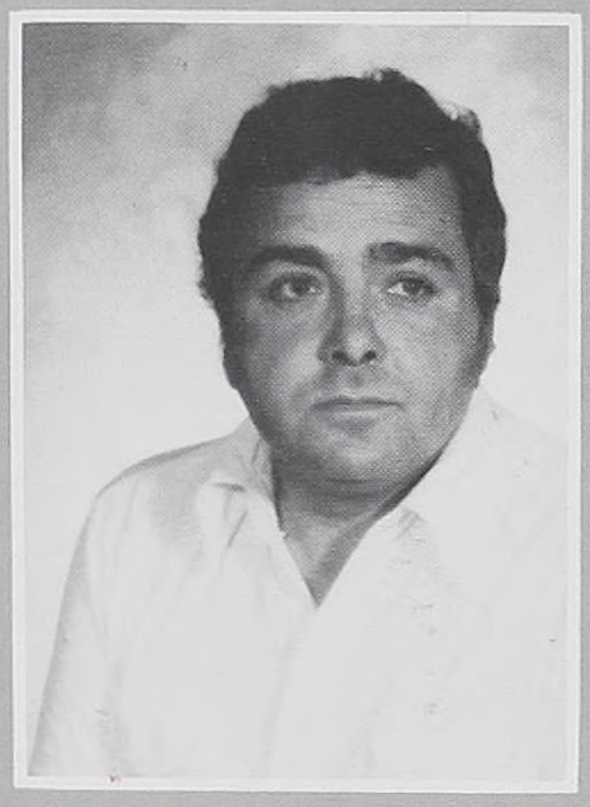

Food for thought.

The Staybacks

Ending the season with a 0-10 record and placing sixth as the sectional does not indicate the tremendous improvement that the New Prairie girls' golf team had experienced. During the season each of the girls played her own personal best round and showed constant dedication to the team. The team was young, most of the girls being only in their second season for golf, but it will offer a definite challenge next season. Donna Kirkham, the only returning senior, was captain of the team. Jodi Stayback was awarded Most Valuable player; Kim Rosentreter was Most Improved.

Third row: Donna Layman, Mitzi Lindsey, Janis John, Sarah Buehrer, Wendy Tobolski, Sue Bockover, Joann Gabryszak.

Considering the awkward situation of not having a pool, the girls' swim team practiced hard and never gave up. Mrs. Nova appreciated the girls' support and was proud of their performance. The season record was 0-11, but Lou Ann Dixon compensated by qualifying for state and by breaking four new school records. Captains were Lou Ann Dixon, Kelly Papai, and Becky Lotter. Most Valuable Player was Lou Ann Dixon; Most Improved were Aimee Deutscher and Wendy Tobolski.

Cross Country

State Champ

"The Pain"

The ladycats and the packmen once again faced grueling weather uneven courses, and twisted ankles to complete a winning season. They proved themselves to be fighters as well as winners, and each followed the team's motto — "Never say die." The ladycats ended the season with a 8-0 record, and the packmen concluded with a 8-4 record.

One outstanding ladycat proved to all of New Prairie that dreams do come true with dedication and drive. Carol Gray returned home from Indianapolis wearing the title of State Cross Country Champion and the smile of a winner.

Members of the National Honor Society represent scholarship, leadership, character, and service. The active club members inducted new participants during a candlelight ceremony, and together they displayed their leadership and service qualities by participating in various community activities such as ringing bells for the Salvation Army and wrapping gifts for Hamilton Grove. The annual trip to Chicago's Drury Lane was made in the spring, and offered the members an opportunity to receive new knowledge and to prove their rewarding characters. Mrs. Wynelle Hughes is the National Honor Society sponser.

Christmas Food Drive

Girls' Service Club members showed their spirit throughout the year by keeping the school decorated for the holidays, and by working the concession stand at basketball games. The girls held the annual mother/daughter banquet, and also had a successful food drive at Christmas.

Cougar Reporter

Meeting deadlines and tackling the typewriters were only a few of the jobs performed by the Cougar reporters. The responsibility fell upon them to keep the students informed of the local area and high school news. Papers are published once a month with a variety of artwork accompanying the articles. Mr. Blaine Gamble was the sponsor of the Cougar Reporter.

Creating the Prairie Life annual required time, dedication, and co-operation from both the editors and the staff members. Many hours were spent designing layouts, taking and then choosing pictures, writing copy, selling subscriptions and ads, proof-reading, and then finalizing everything in time to meet a deadline. However, the work did not go without fun, and part of that fun was "breaking in" the new sponsor, Mr. Blaine Gamble. While teaching Mr. Gamble, the entire staff also continued to learn, and this helped to make the 1985 yearbook a great success.

Although pep sessions were banned from the schools, the Pep Club never let it ruin New Prairie's spirit. The halls continued to echo with spirit as the members kept them decorated with encouraging banners for all of New Prairie's athletes. The Pep Club also planned spirit week for enthusiastic students and sold homecoming flowers as a money making project. Mrs. Theresa Gallaway sponsored the Pep Club.

In today's business-oriented society, students need to be prepared for the competitiveness with which they will be faced. Office Education Association offered members an opportunity for an early education in the world of business. Members competed in the District Conference in Gary, Indiana, where tests were taken on job performance areas; and students began to realize that accuracy and utilization were the key factors to success in the business industry. Mr. Max Haag was the sponsor of OEA.

FFA

1985 was an unusual year for our FFA chapter; for the first time in New Prairie history, no seniors joined the organization. Mr. Thomas, FFA sponsor, was pleased with his twenty-member group, half of which was from the freshmen class. FFA members prepared various activities for National Agriculture week, and also sold garden seeds as a fund raiser.

To most of us, Mexico is only the name of a foreign country, but it offered the Spanish Club members an exciting culture to explore. Mrs. Miller, the sponsor, organized money-making projects to sell such as candles and candy in order to earn money for the various trips that were taken by the club. Visits to an authentic Mexican restaurant, Chicago and Fort Wayne, and a trip to Valporaiso to see a ballet were only a few of the fun things that the Spanish Club did throughout the year.

The Seniors, the spirit pom, and camp '85

A new move?

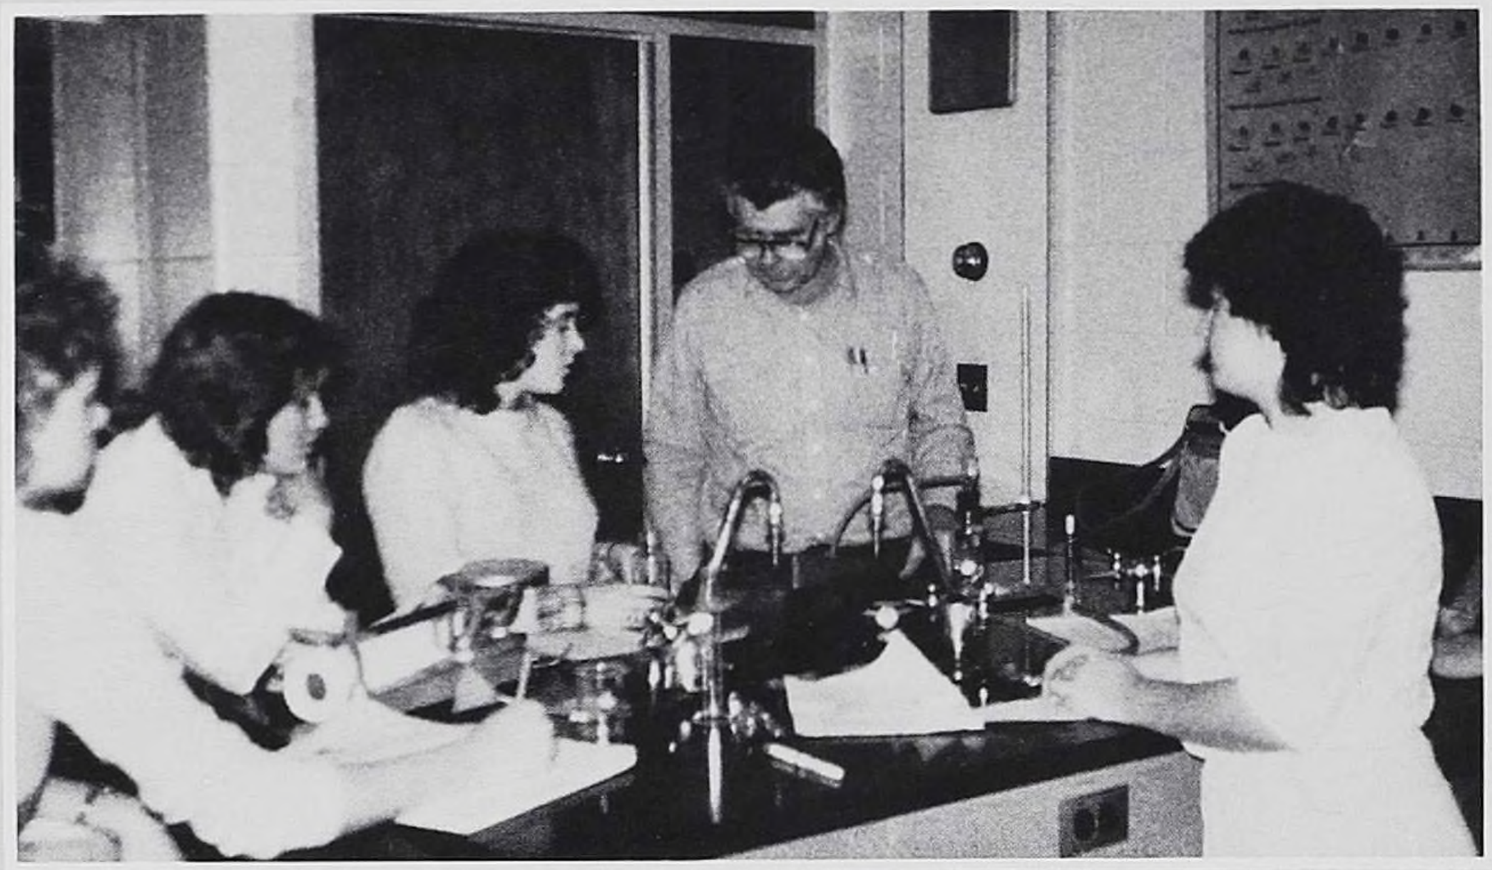

New songs, new dances, and a revived spirit got the Pom-pon girls off to an explosive new year. Coached by Claudia Estep and Kristin Shaw, the girls marched in parades for the VFW, sold candy bars, held car washes, and attended camp at Valparaiso University to keep their summer full and exciting. Senior captain Aimee Deutscher and junior captain Lori Szymanski helped to lead the girls in a fun week of camp, where they won the coveted spirit pom-pon on the first night.

CURRICULUM

Science

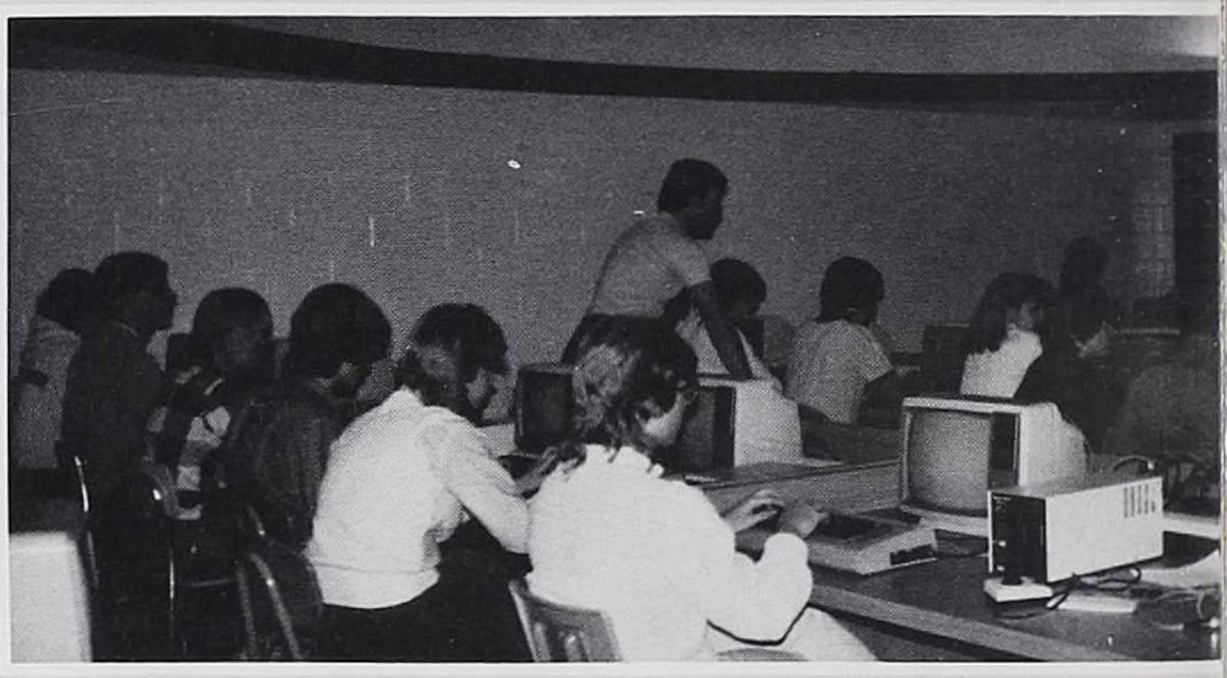

What exactly is a "mole", Mr. Woolsey?

Bart has a green thumb?

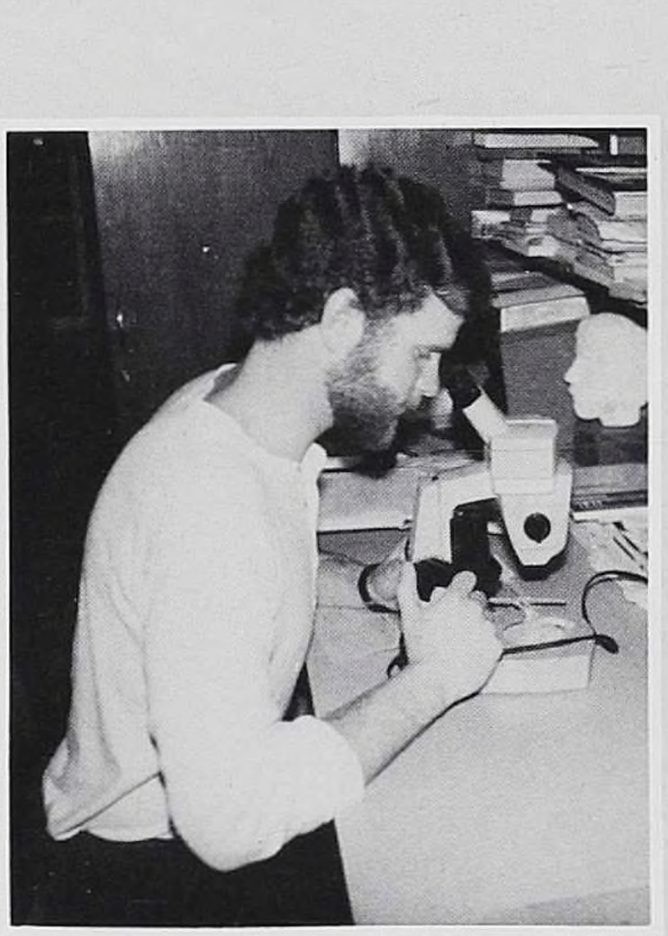

Teacher and his pet.

Computers, man's best friend.

Technology is no longer a thought for the future, but a fact of the present. Whether it is earth science or physics, biology or chemistry, or even computers, the importance of science is ever-increasing. The science department at New Prairie offered students various types of sciences in which to study. Each class taught students the techniques of experimentation and the importance of careful observation which are intrinsic to the study of science.

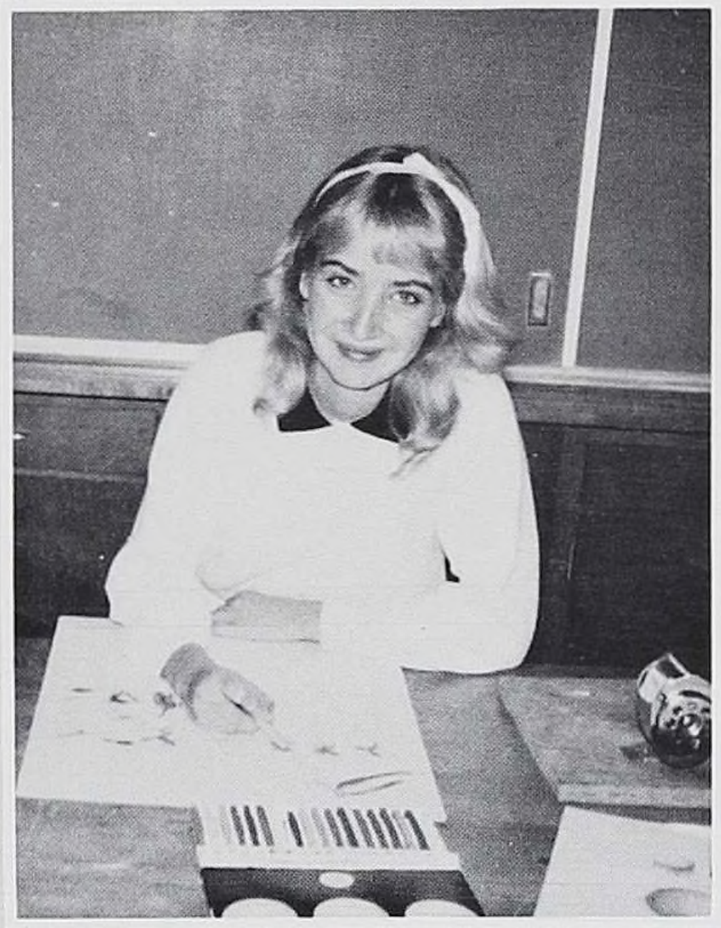

Intense research at New Prairie.

Mold farming is fun.

Brush stroke instruction.

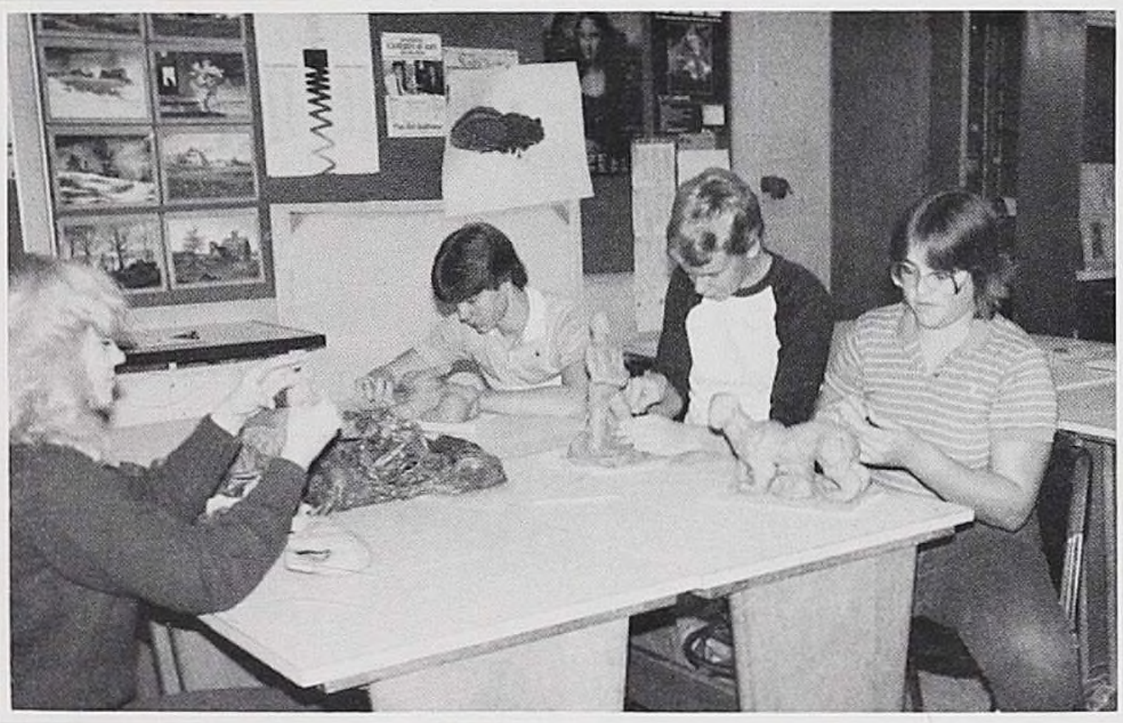

Melina Ebert.

Clay, the next best thing to playdough!

Art class was a time for personal expression and experimentation with colors, sculptures, and designs. New Prairie students displayed unusual artistic techniques and creativity, and exceptional art students were awarded gold keys which offered encouragement for careers in art. Melina Ebert received the coveted award of Hallmark. Art students used their talents to design musical settings and prom decorations which were greatly appreciated by the school.

Devout scholars.

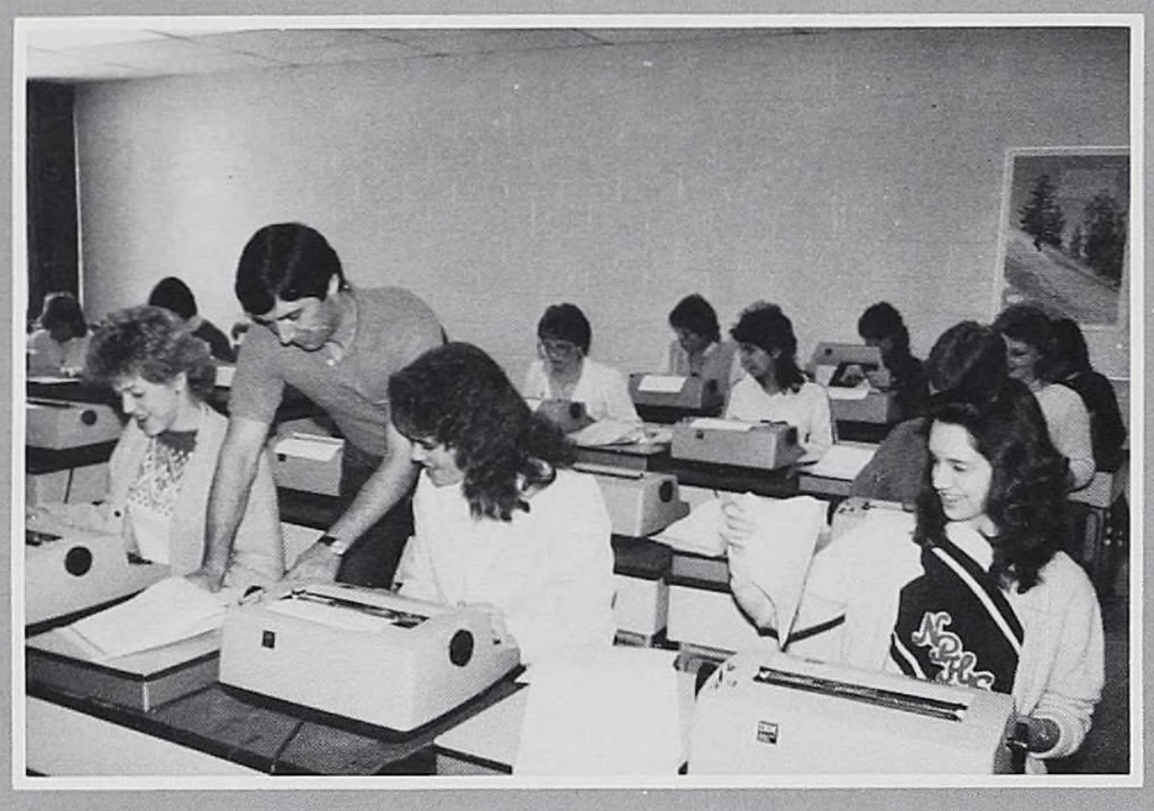

Here! Right under your nose.

The secret to success is communication, and the secret to communication is an understanding of the English language. New Prairie's English department provided the students with opportunities to practice public speaking, to read literary classics, and to expand their vocabularies. Students also learned the meanings of coherence and unity, and how to apply them syntactically and rhetorically while writing.

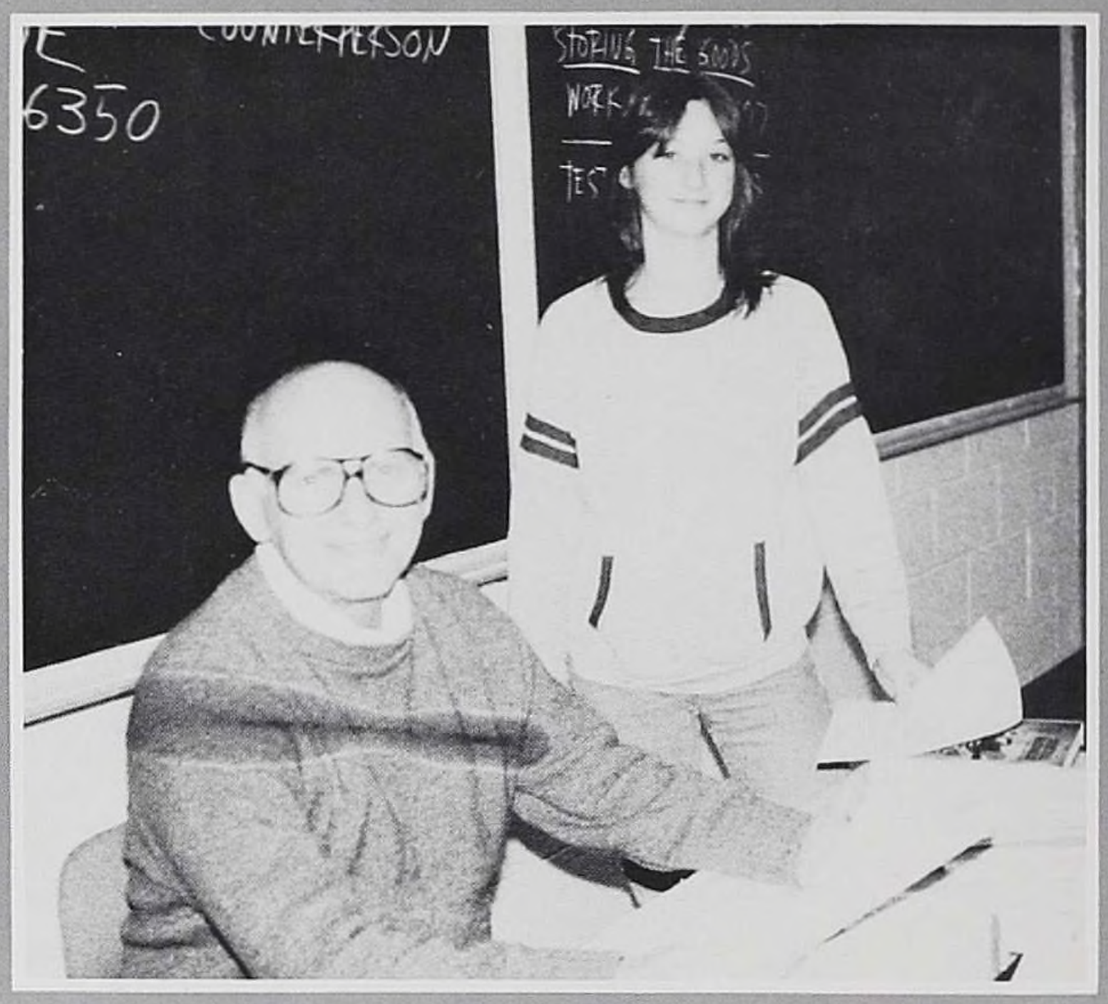

Foreign communication has become increasingly important with the expansion of foreign relations. New Prairie helped students develop an understanding of the Spanish and French languages and cultures. The students did outside projects in order to fully explore these countries, and the teachers showed filmstrips as part of their curriculum. Exchange student representatives also visited the foreign language classrooms to discuss the excitement of foreign exchange.

Business

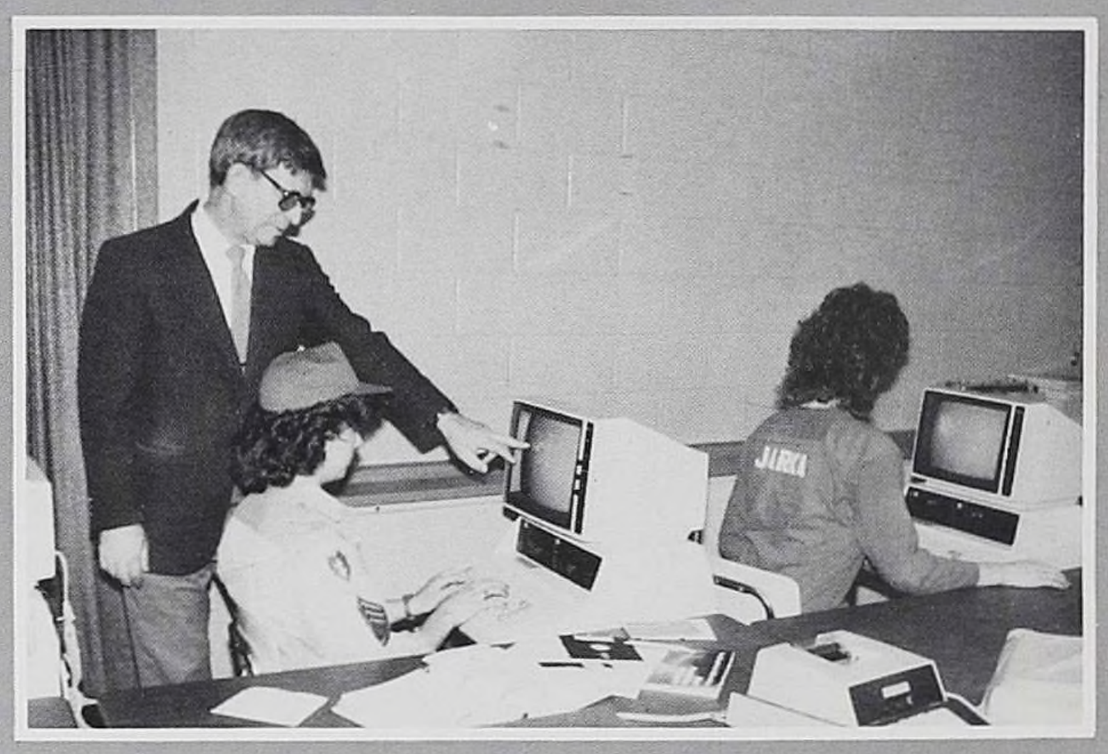

This is what you are to type.

Efficiency was the key word to the Business department. Whether it meant typing faster, speedily jotting down shorthand, quickly calculating interest, or learning the vocabulary of the business world for easier communication, the students experienced the ambiance of working in an office and participating in the business world. Students who majored in business were prepared to continue their educations and enter the business field as managers, marketing specialists, accountants, or secretaries.

Home Economics

The Wedding Party

Say "Ahhh."

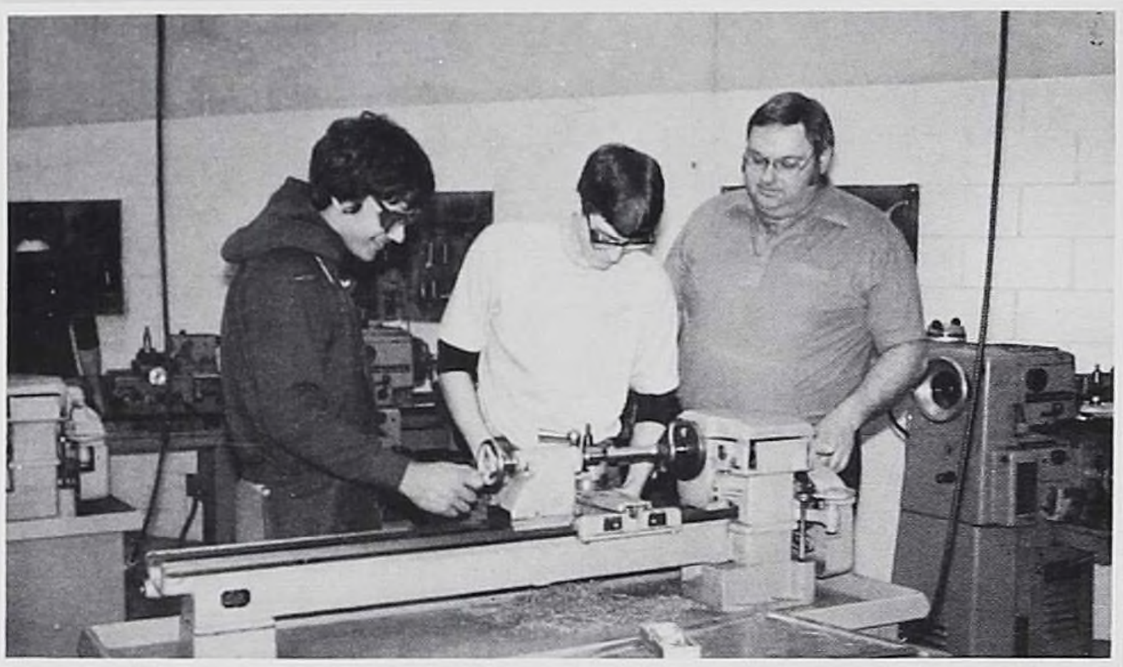

Romper Room

Learning in progress?

Our post high school lives will vary greatly, but each will have a common trait, the necessity for Home Economics. Cooking, sewing, caring for children, balancing a budget, and marriage were featured in the home-ec lessons. Open discussions were part of the home-ec classes. Males and females alike joined to take such classes as family living, singles living, and child development. And while a pseudo-marriage was performed in one class, children were observed and entertained in another.

Industrial Arts

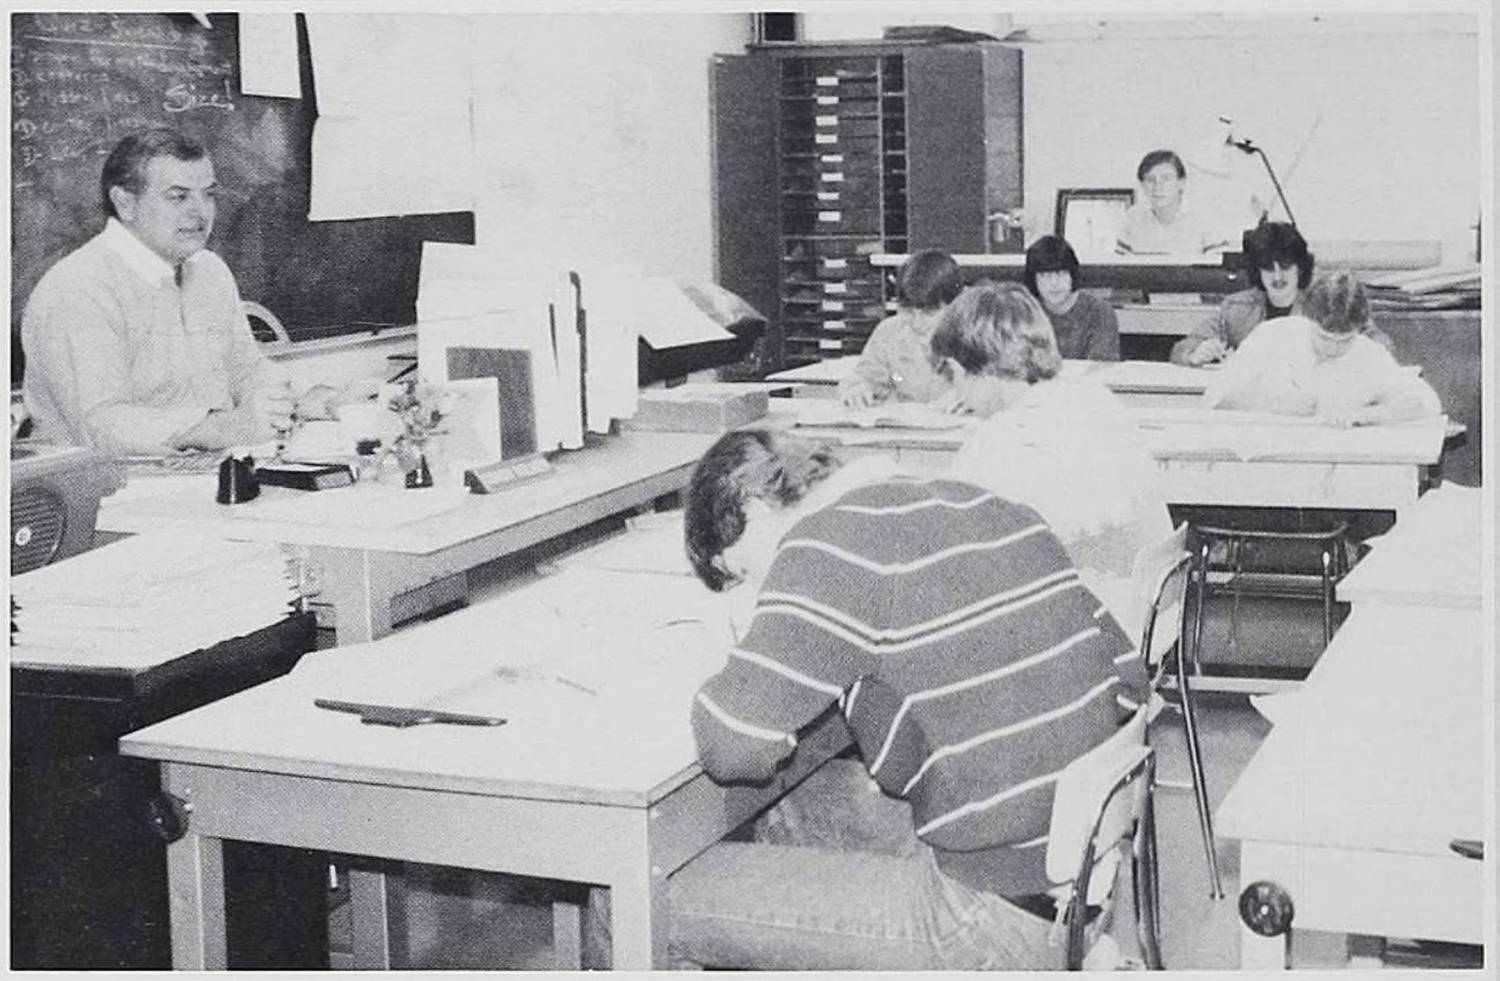

Metal shop is well supervised.

Are you sure all the parts are here?

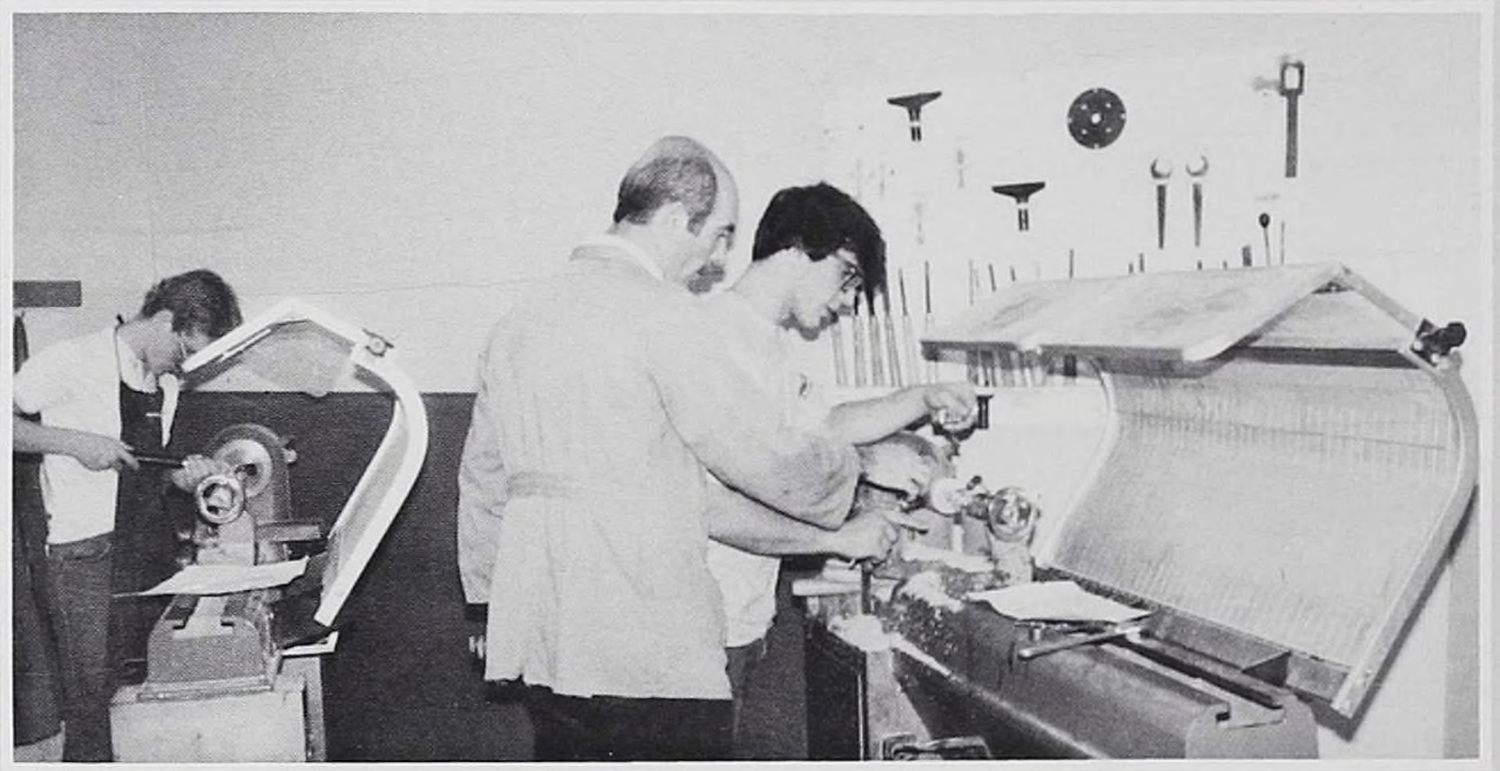

Do real mechanics work in a cage?

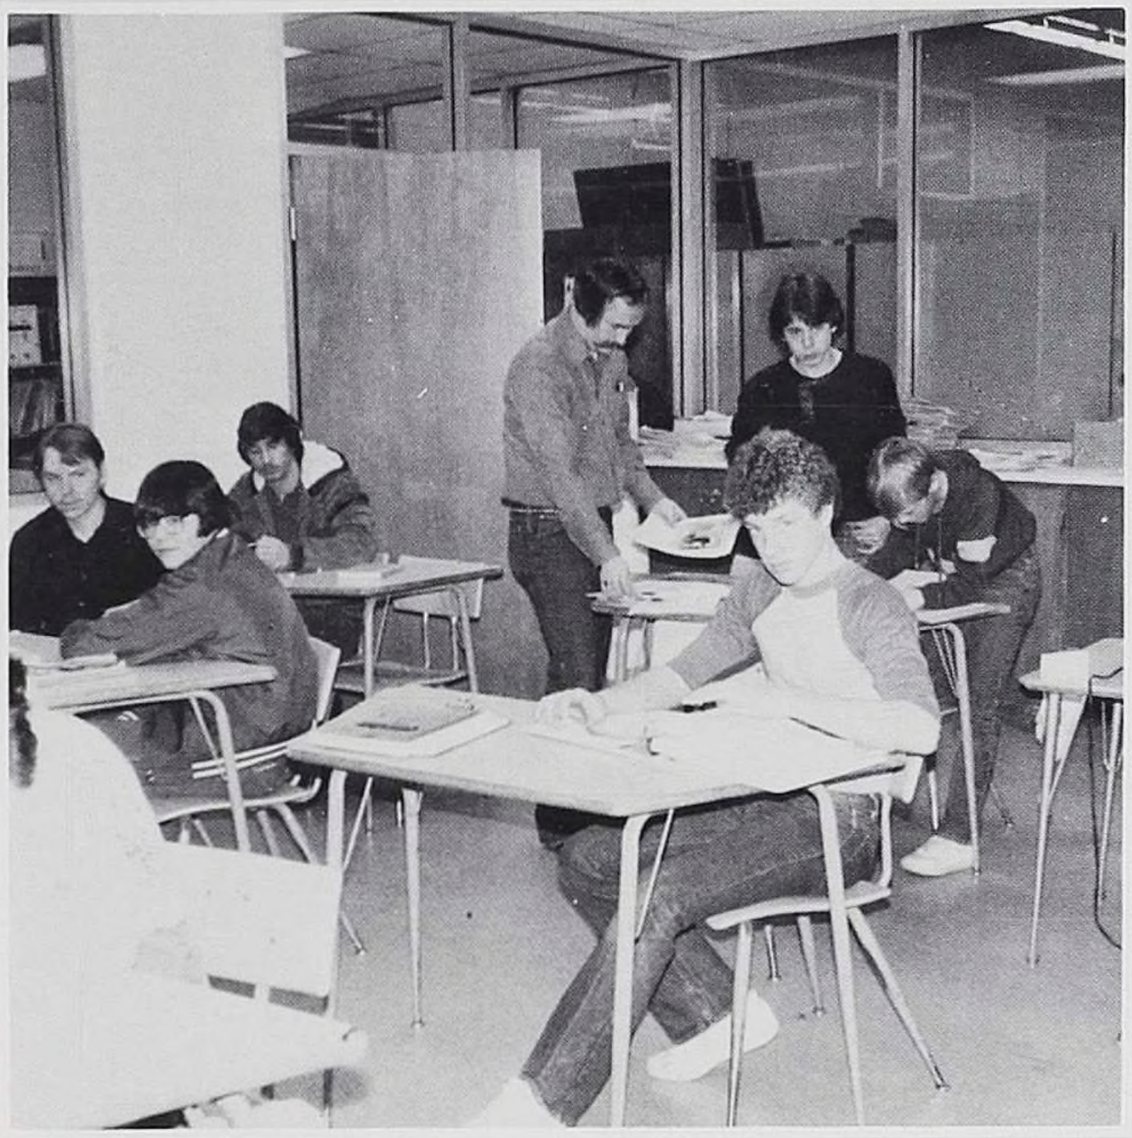

Make sure those lines are straight.

Vocational skills are a helpful necessity in life, and the Industrial Arts department encouraged the learning of these skills. Industrial arts students learned a variety of talents, such as designing houses and repairing engines. The classes promoted individual projects which students designed and then built using their initiative and the equipment available.

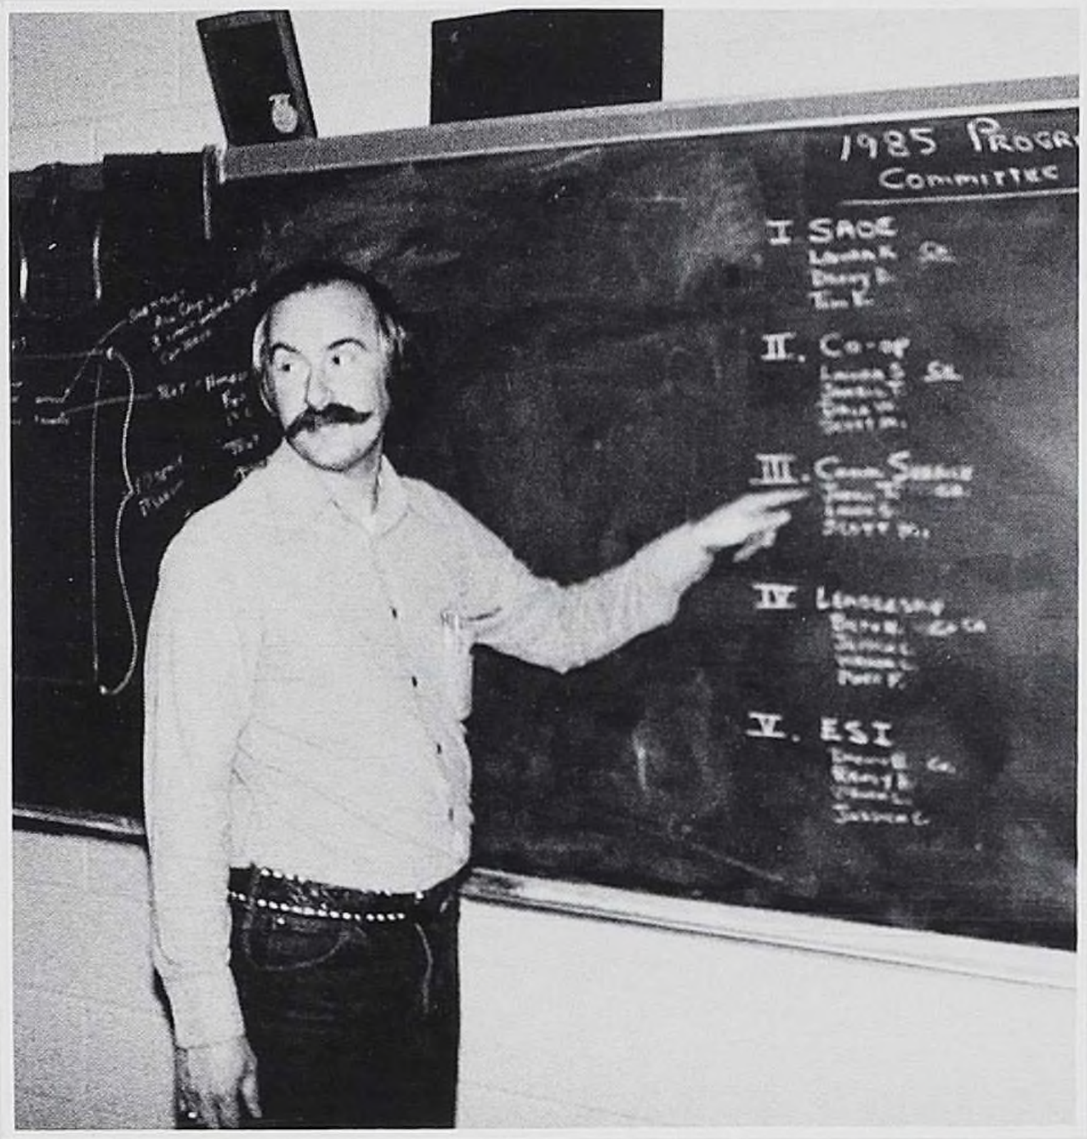

I only wanted a toothpick.

Agriculture

Bookwork?

Lecture time

Sheep-shearing

The dilemma of the future is food production. Agriculture classes provided students with insight of the importance of raising food for the world and of developing more efficient and productive minds. The many aspects of farming were discussed in the classes, and students discovered that science and mathematics play an important part in the agricultural field. Students completed individual projects using the information that they had learned.

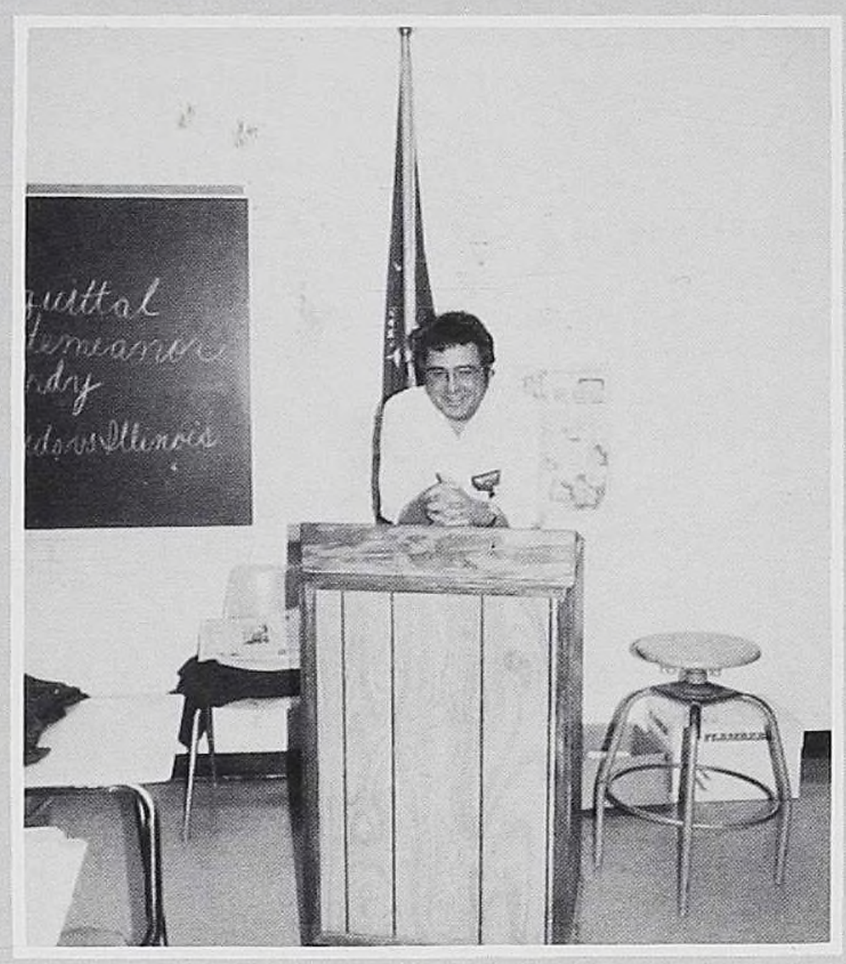

Social Studies

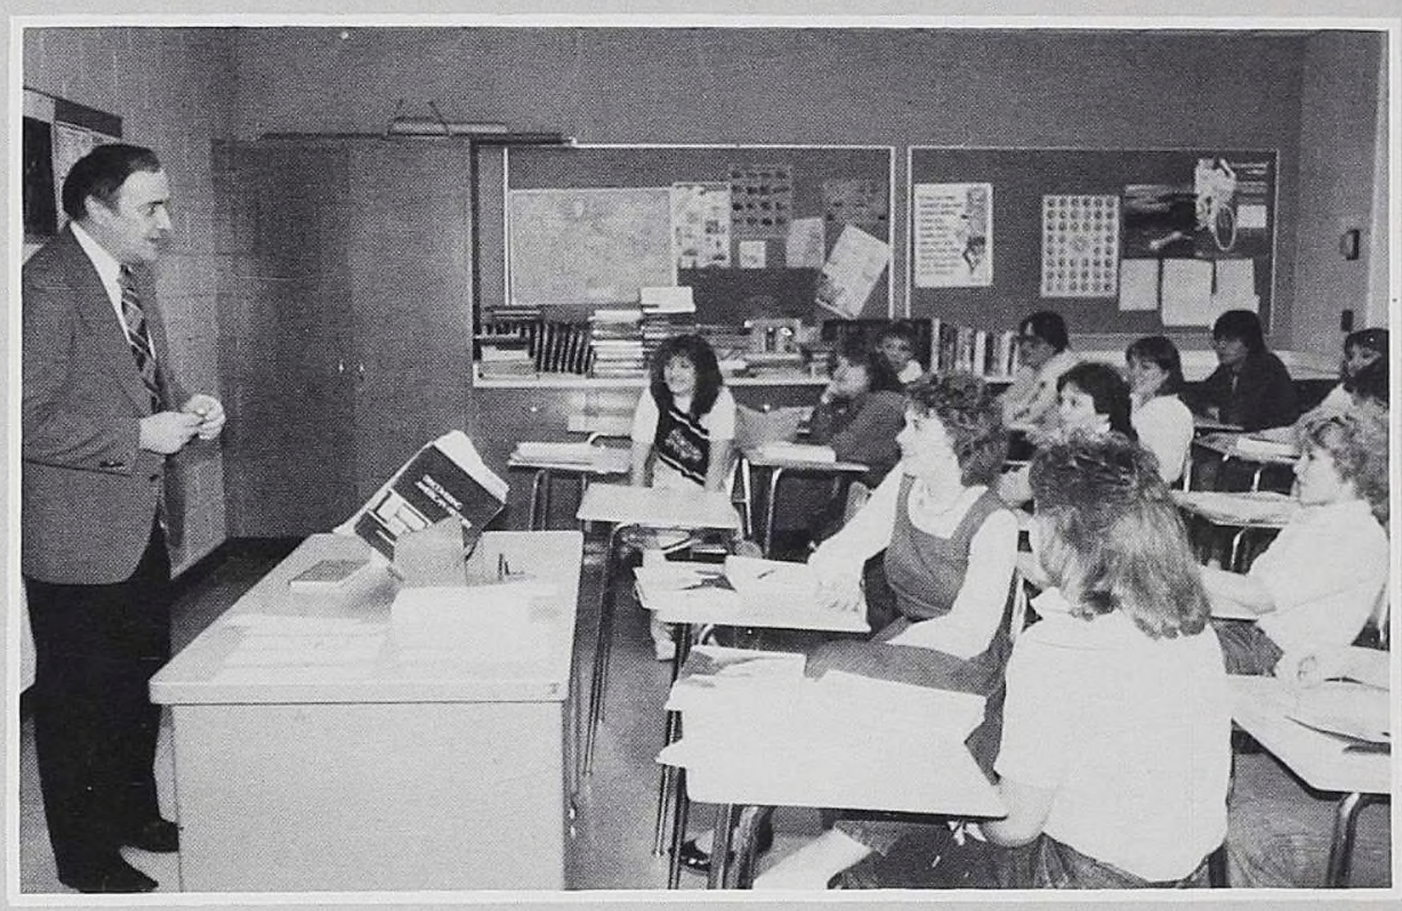

What's the topic for today, Mrs. Sandburg?

Mel and Friend

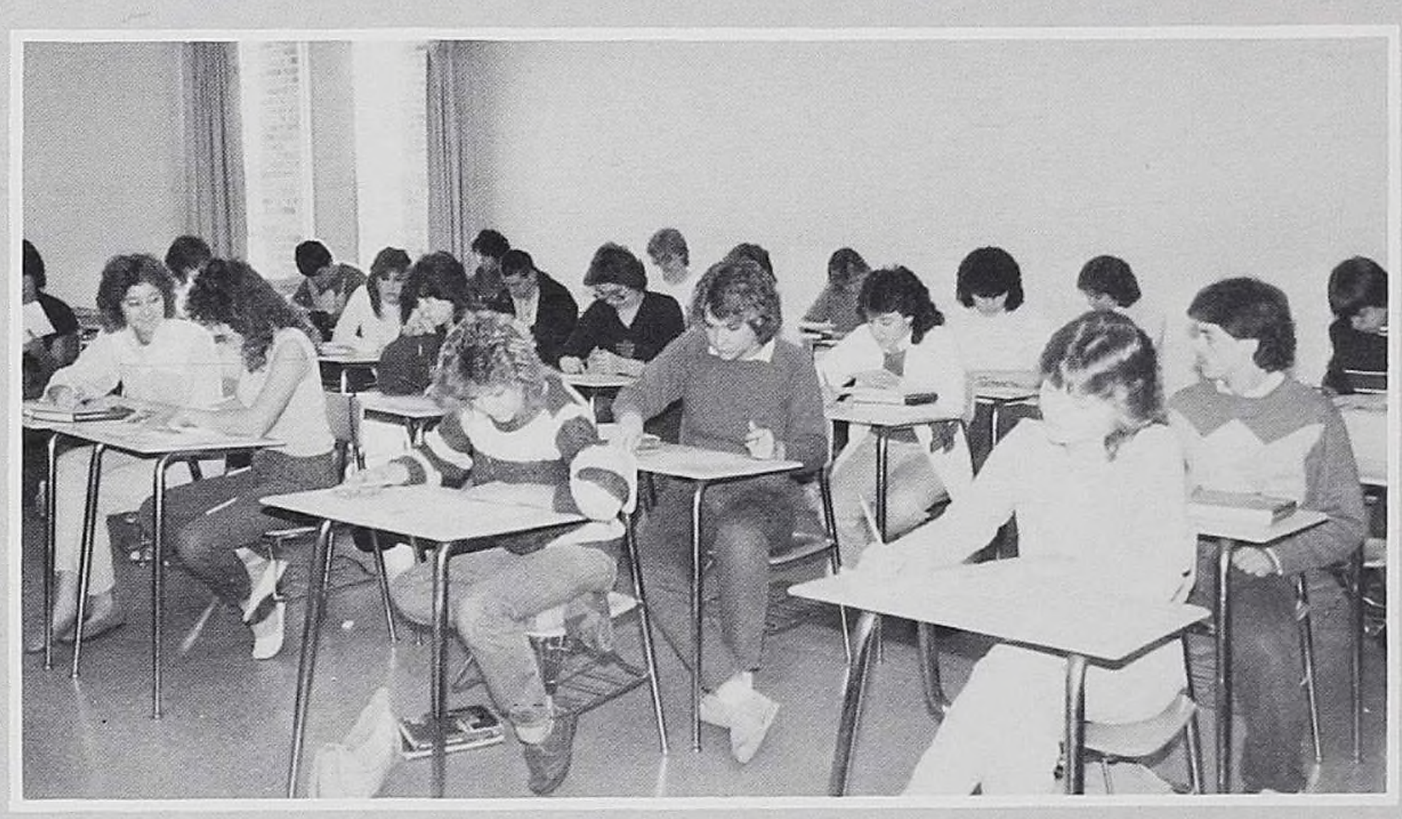

Tea today?

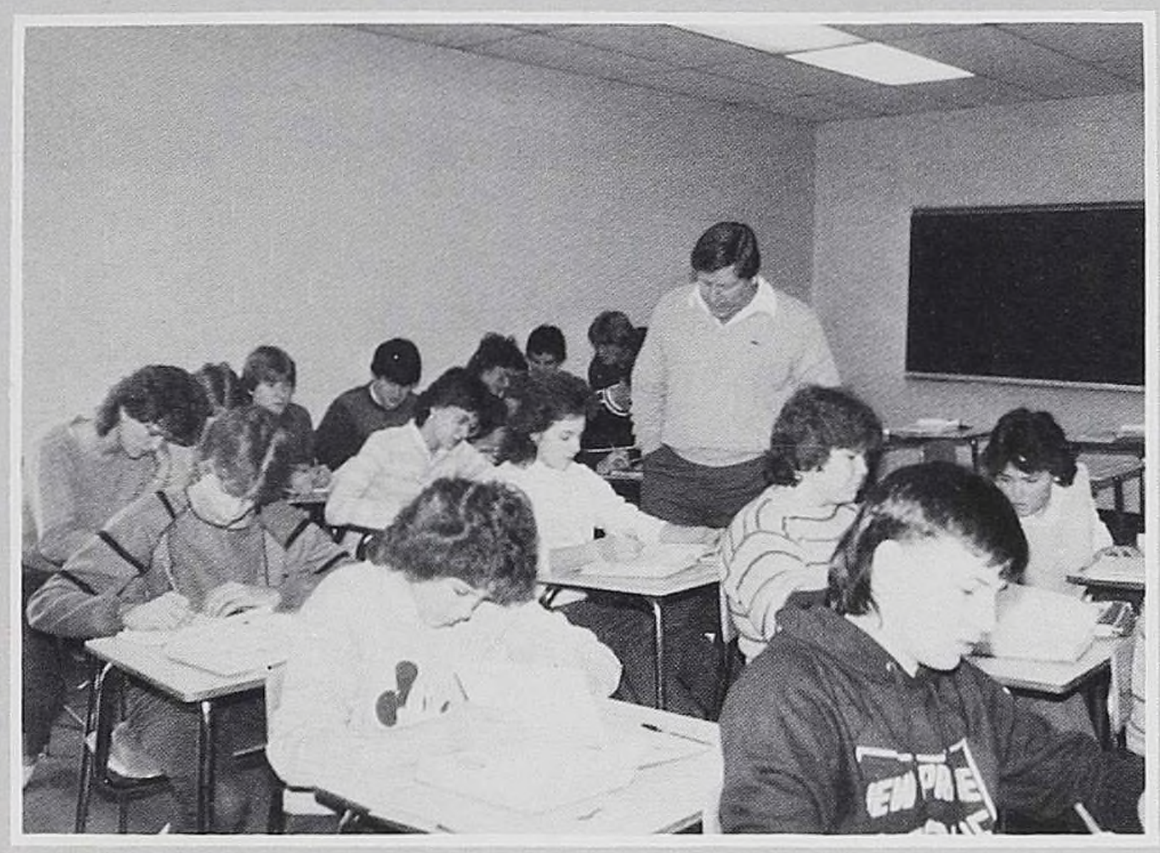

This is the elastic clause, see?

Lessons from the past prepare students for the future, and this was the purpose of the Social Studies department at New Prairie. History, Government, and Economics were designed to make students aware of the political United States.

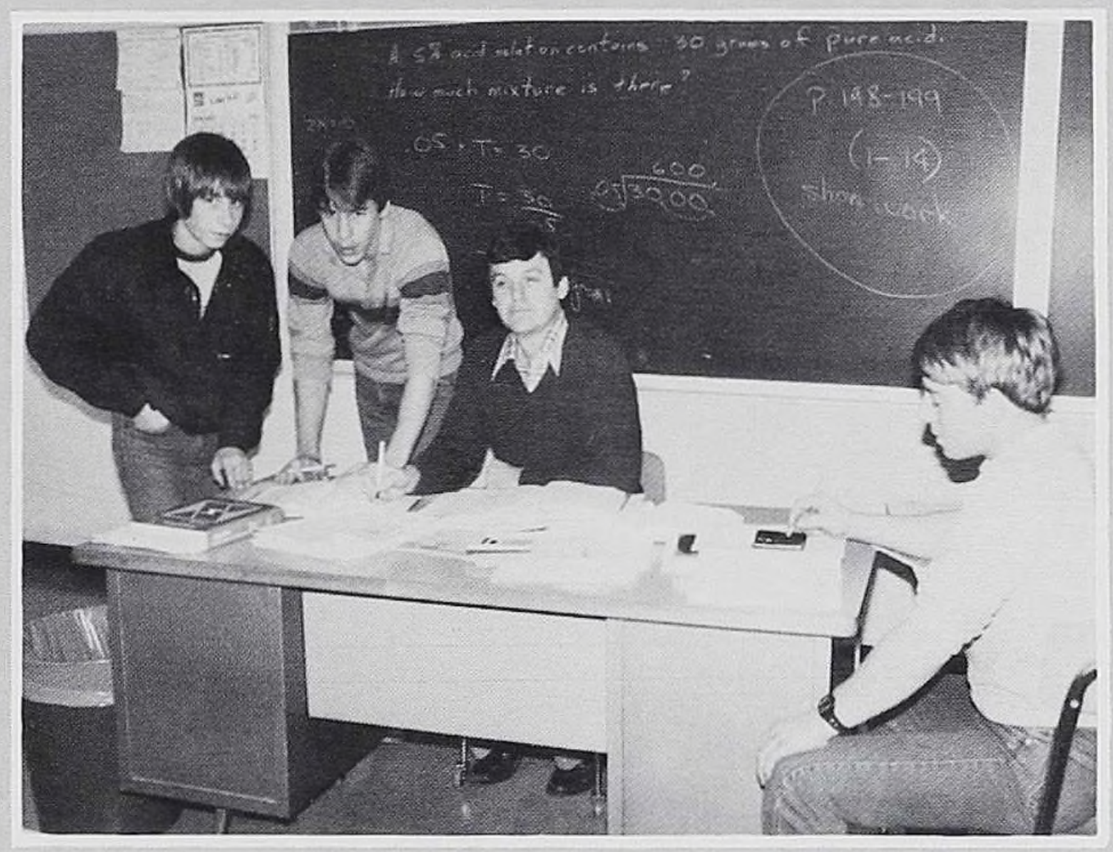

Psychology and Sociology tutored the students in the study of the social workings of man and how his mind reacts to the world around him. The Social Study classes presented guest speakers throughout the year for the students.

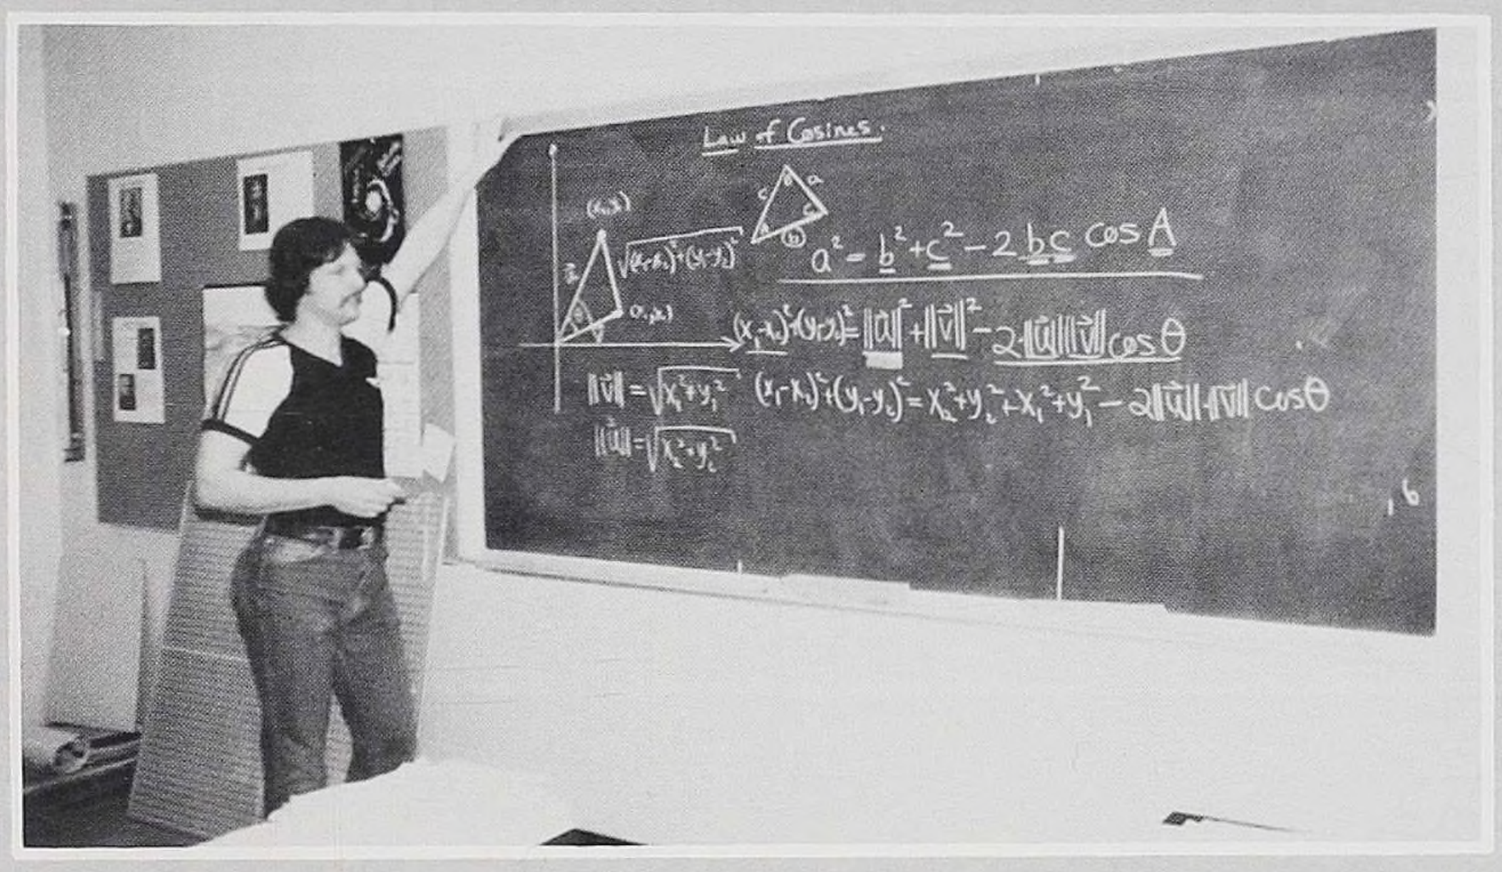

Econ class is hard work.

You can't multiply by square roots?

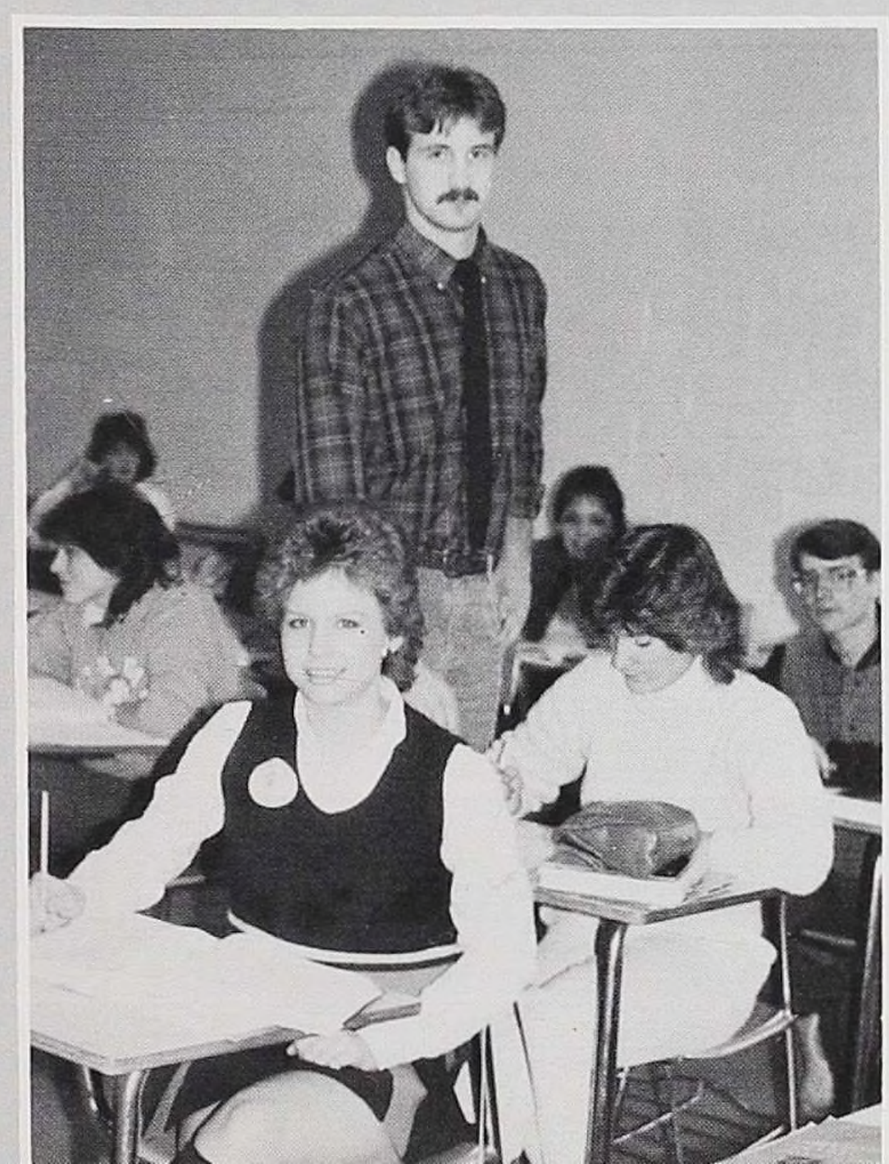

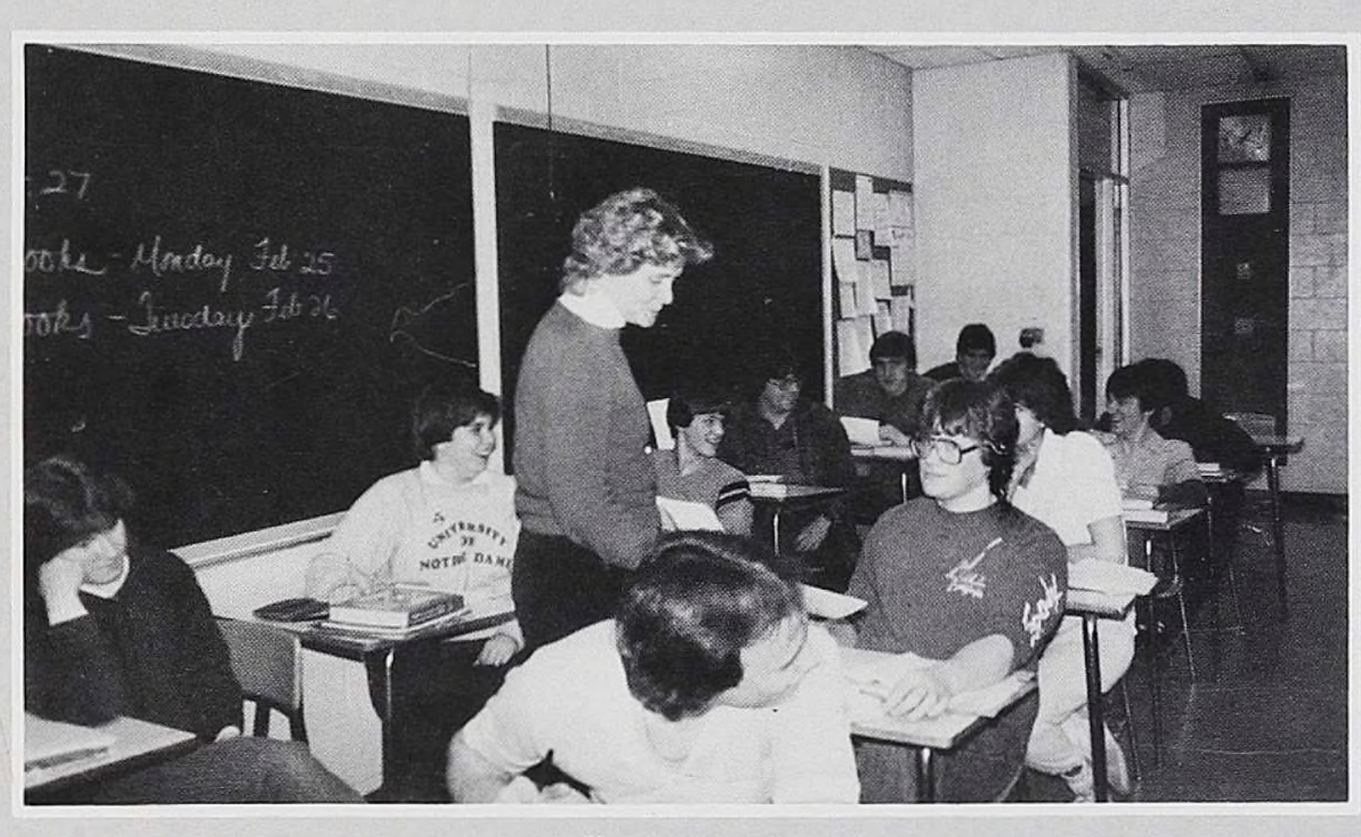

Geometric confusion.

O.K., here's the hint.

Addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division — the basic laws of mathematics that we learned in the lower grades were soon divided into fractions, substituted by theories and formulas, bisected into angels, and parallelled into lines when we entered the high school mathematics department. The alphabet and the numeral system intertwined, and the numbers became irrational as we advanced to new levels of mathematic complexity. We soon learned how to apply this subject to the industrial world of engineering and manufacturing, and with this understanding came respect for the genius of the ancient mathematicians.

Test return.

Physical Education

Heroes, in our eyes!

Face-off

Physical Education classes at New Prairie offered students the opportunity to develop physically as well as mentally. Students discovered the advantages of working with a team when they participated in swimming, basketball, baseball, volleyball and other such activities. The gymnasium provided something for everyone, and the students enjoyed the freedom and variety that gym class brought to their days. Life Saving and Drug Abuse classes were among the many gym courses offered. Physical education also took place in Health class where students realized the importance of good health and proper hygiene.

Homecoming was a time to show spirit, to elect queens, to give mums to a favorite person, and to cheer the home team to success. During the Football Homecoming, undercurrents of excitement were felt as classes competed for the spirit stick by decorating halls and dressing in unusual costumes. A bonfire/pep session was the memorable highlight preceding the game, fireworks brought forth drawn breaths at halftime, and the team's victory made the grand finale.

This year's musical had a fun-filled, light-hearted plot with a dash of romance intertwined. The Pajama Game took place in Cedar Rapids, Iowa in a small-town pajama factory where a labor dispute was in action. Troubles arose when the new superintendent and the chairman of the grievance committee fell in love, only to be broken up by an argument over a seven and a half cent raise. Before the factory could strike, the superintendent saved the day by "persuading" the crooked president of the corporation to relent and give the raise. The production was accompanied by the excellent music of the pit band.

Prom 1985

Calm for a moment.

Puttin' on tuxes and top hats, gowns and lace gloves, the Seniors and Juniors spent May 11 Puttin' on the Ritz. The day of prom was spent cleaning cars, buying flowers, and preparing for prom, while the evening was spent dining in the finest restaurants and dancing to the excellent music of the Middle of the Road band. Melissa Martin and Chris Blake were chosen from fourteen court members to wear the crowns and to receive the roses that are presented to the prom Queen and King. Post-prom was at the high school where another dance took place following the annual breakfast.

The Class Of 1985

Holding up the "wall" and breaking school records, food fights and postponed homecomings, doughnuts and pizza, bonfires and spirit sticks, "nerd" day and prom, going steady and breaking up — memories were made of these. As freshmen we were terrified to walk the halls; as seniors no hallway was left untrodden. Within four years, we experienced success and failure. The faculty became more than our tutors, they became our friends. On June 2, when we received our diplomas, the rush of these memories was overwhelming. During graduation we realized, perhaps for the first time, that we were no longer students but graduates; no longer "kids" but adults.

Barney

A legend was laid to rest at New Prairie this year. In early spring of 1967 custodians Irv Andrysiak and Ted Zopf found Barney, a nonedescript black and brown mongrel, near the sewage plant behind the school.

Barney stayed by the north entrance near the custodain's office. In the winter, Barney slept on a jacket by the door. Many of the school personell including Principal Amzie Miller and Andrysiak brought food to Barney. During bad weather of the winter and summer Miller check on Barney.

After Barney was at the school for nine years, one of the teachers, Don Thomas, decided it was time to enroll Barney as a freshman and he became Barney C. Hines on the freshman class roll.

Barney's closest call to expulsion came when Kenneth Gradeless protested to the office that Barney Heinz enrolled in his accounting class and never showed up after the first day.

Perhaps Barney wasn't mathematically inclined, but he never missed a day of school and got all A's from the entire faculty and student body.

Barney's friends knew the end was near Oct. 4 when the big old dog, during his usual rounds, walked into the agriculture and shop rooms and collapsed. Teachers William Haselton and David Mathews picked Barney up and with gentle care, loaded him into the car for the trip to the office of Dr. Phillip Wolf of New Carlisle.

The diagnois wasn't good. Wolfe told the teachers that Barney's age and disease were against him. "Barney is terminally ill and will not live long," Wolfe said. Barney was mercifully put to sleep.

Shortly there after Barney was laid to rest in the spot where he was found east of the New Prairie football field behind the school building. Although there was no public ceremony, the people who loved Barney miss greatly his shaggy presence both inside and outside the high school.

Letter From The Editors

As editor and assistant editor of the 1985 Prairie Life, we hope that you have enjoyed this year's annual as much as we enjoyed putting it together. To accomplish the job, we combined work and sacrifice with ambition and enthusiasm. We sacrificed much of our time; As one one as one if our classmates stated, we have spent half of our senior year in our "office." We made the most of our opportunity to lay down our senior year in memories. The chance to work with each other and our staff brought many good times and laughter, even though most of the jokes were about our mistakes.

We would like to thank our advisor, Mr. Blaine Gamble, for all the time, energy, and concern that he put into the yearbook. He stepped into a new position and was forced to deal with our already set idiosyncracies. We were fortunate in having an advisor who was so dedicated.

We would also like to express our gratitude to Mr. Larry Dodd, Mr. Richard Sprague, Mr. Michael Powers, and Mr. Ronald Colborne for their understanding of the necessity of meeting "deadlines." Mr. Haag deserves our thanks in that he was always there to lend a hand and to help avert those minor castastophies.

In addition to the administration and faculty, we would like to give special thanks to Mrs. Judy Adnson for all her patience, time, and assistance.

Nothing would have been accomplished if not for the efforts of the following people: Joe Allegrette, associate editor; Pay Hayhurst, copy editor; Scott Lenig, business manager; Jim Beckham, our Jostens Representative; Laurie Oshinski, and the rest of our staff.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Juniors

Officers: Renee Frantom, vice-pres.; Betsie Kempf, sec.; Diane Dobryzkowski, treas.; Stephanie Gilbert, pres.

Heavy sigh!!

Hectic and exciting can only explain the junior year as the juniors juggled research papers, a full load of classes, athletics, clubs, and SAT's. They became responsible upperclassmen, who organized a fun and memorable prom for the Senior class and for themselves. With three years of dedication and drive the juniors have earned the right to be entitled "Seniors."

Sophomores

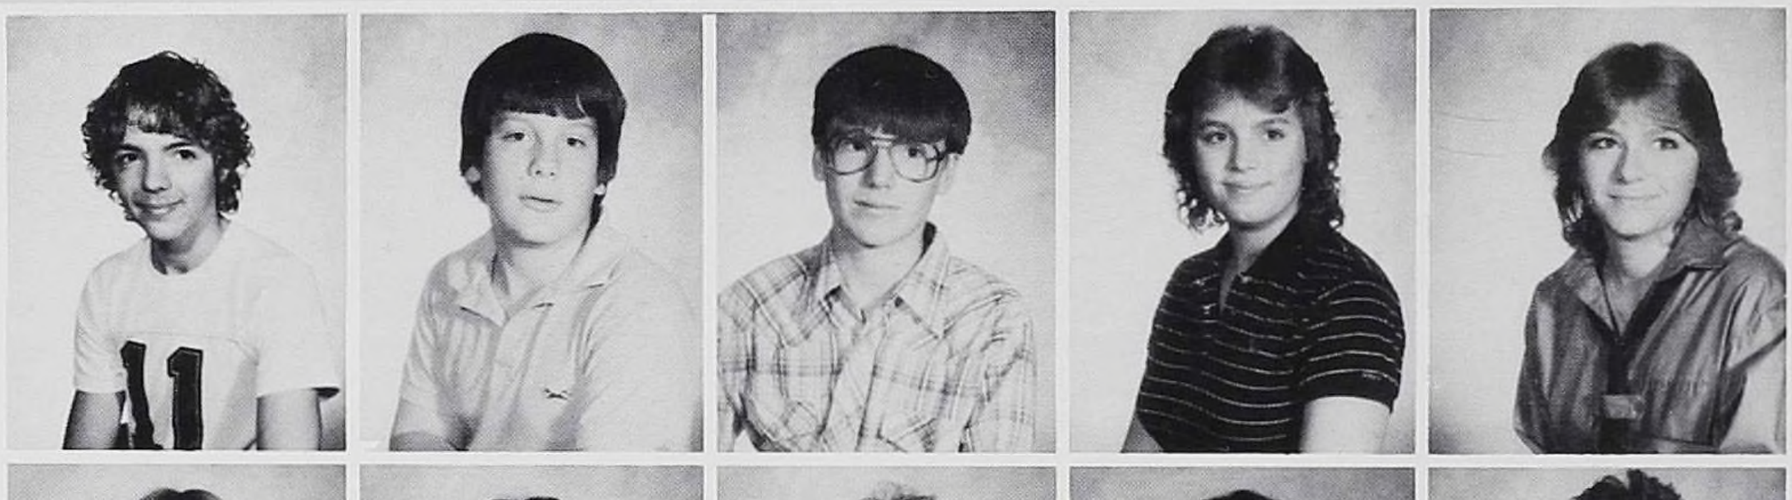

Spirited sophomores.

With a new assuredness the sophomores prepared for their second year in high school. This was the year to earn money for the class by selling magazines, records, and tapes, and the sales proved to be a success. The highlights for the sophomores were winning the spirit stick at the basketball homecoming, taking driver's training, purchasing class rings, and looking forward to becoming upperclassmen.

Class of 1987

Men, in the business world?

Freshmen

New surroundings can be frightening, but the freshmen tackled the high school hallways with success. They good naturedly accepted the threats and the ribbings from the notorious Seniors, and proved themselves to be a credit to New Prairie. As the year came to an end, the freshmen class excitedly advanced to the rank of sophomores, and prepared for the remaining three years.

School Board

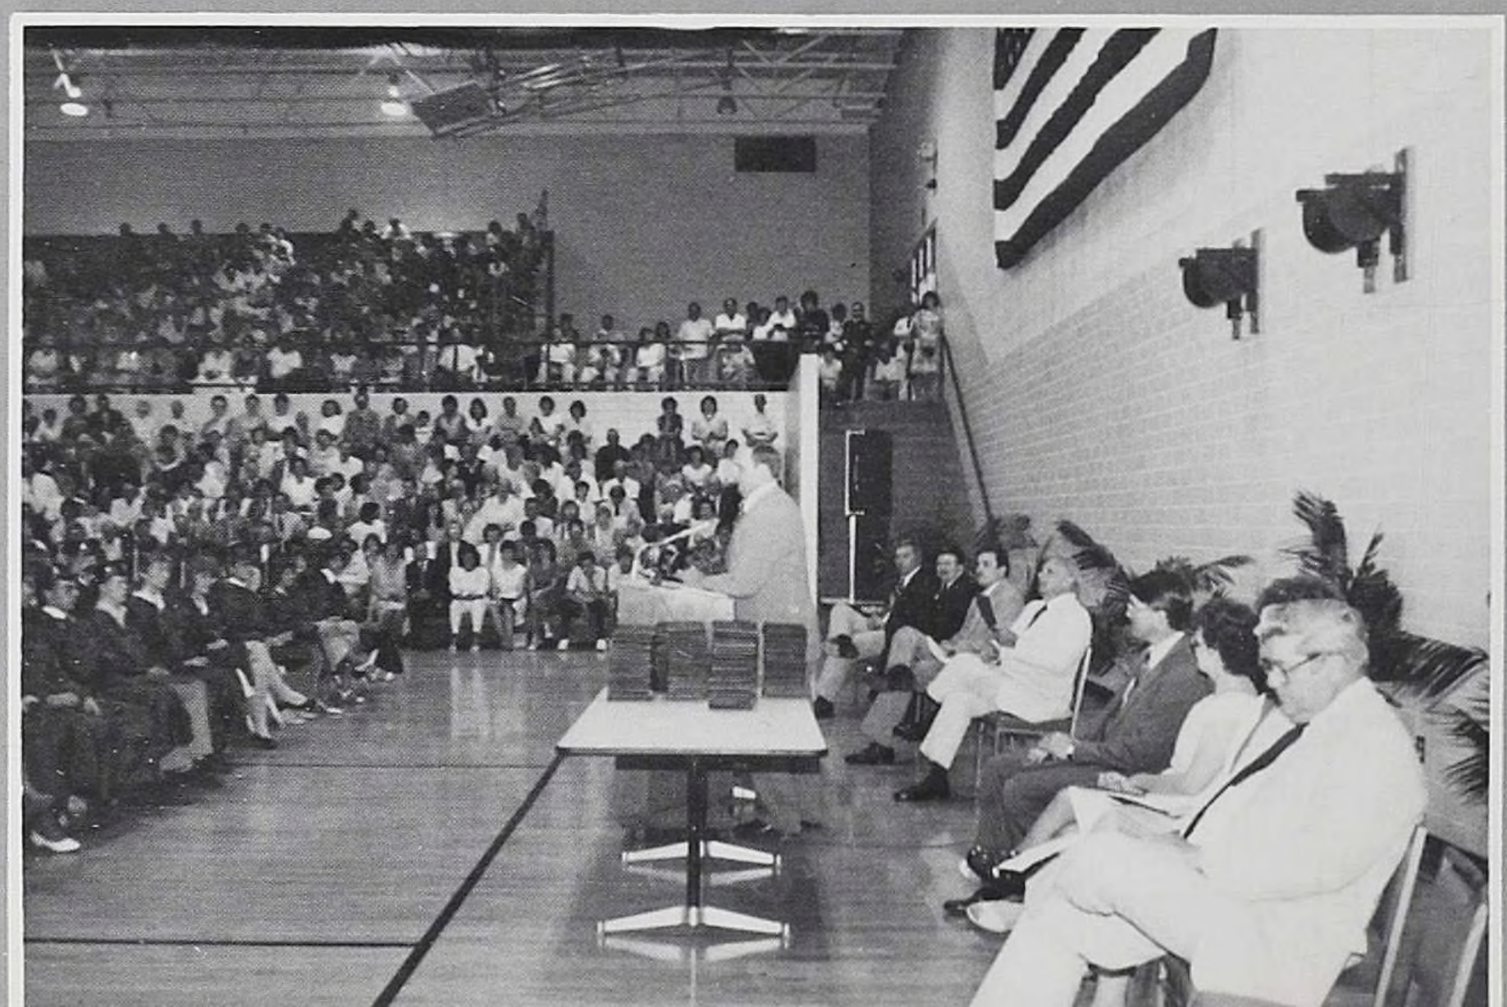

The school board at New Prairie had a responsibility not only to the school system, but also to the community to make important decisions concerning the New Prairie School Corporation. Meetings were held periodically and community members were welcome to attend. A new track and a new gym floor were installed this year thanks to the work of Dr. Keith Powell, superintendent, and the school board, and the co-operation of the school administration. The seniors especially appreciated Dr. Powell and the school board when they agreed to let the senior class off for the last two days of school. Mr. Charles Stephens, curriculum director, also contributed to make 1985 a great year by creating more classes to be offered to the students.

Winning

We all understand winning. We've built a great nation around the individual will to win. To get ahead and stay ahead. At work or play, we all compete. We want to win.

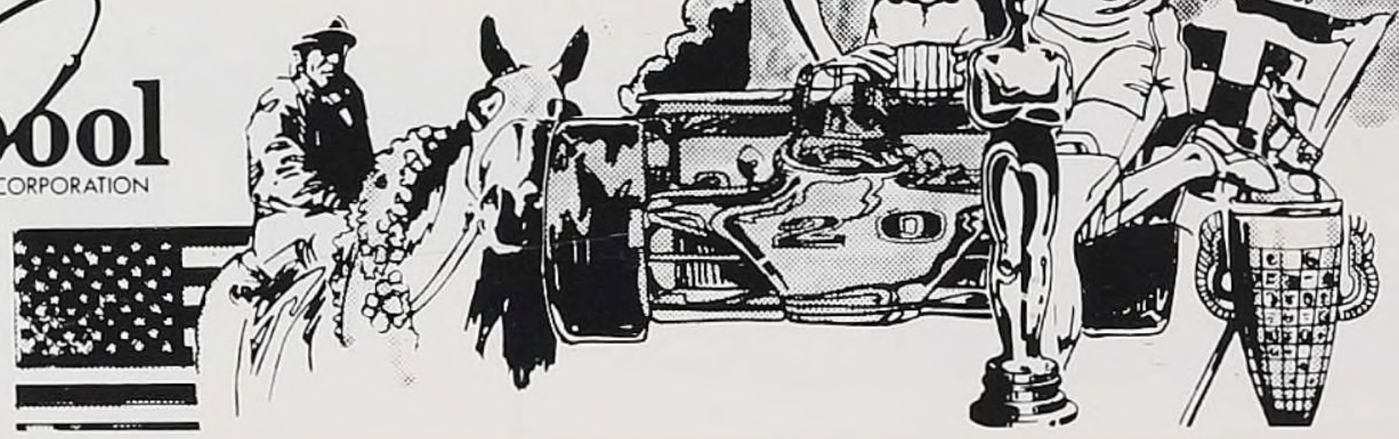

Whirlpool Corporation is no different. We compete to win. But a company's will to win is no stronger than the collective spirit of individuals... the results produced no better than combined individual effort. Our will must be strong enough...our results good enough... to compete with the best. We believe they are.

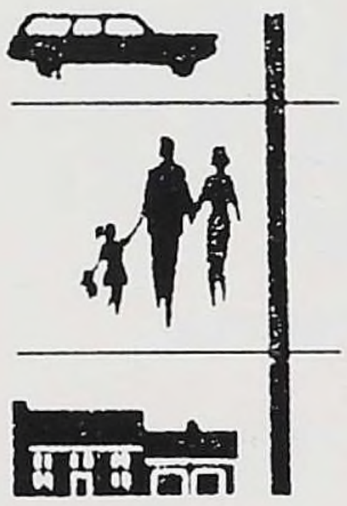

Together we will continue to make and sell appliances second to none in quality and value. Because we want to win. Because winners get to keep competing... and losers don't.

It's all in the State of Mind
If you think you are beaten, you are if you think you dare not, you won't
If you like to win but don't think you can
It's almost a cinch, you won't.
Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man
But sooner or later, the man who wins
Is the fellow who thinks he can.
